THE TEST:
Your study is performed in a private room that is equipped with a television, private bathroom and shower. Once you arrive at the sleep lab and complete the registration process, the technician will proceed with the hook-up of monitoring sensors for the test. You will have electrodes and sensors placed on your head and various other parts of your body in order to monitor continuously for at least 6 hours your sleep stage, breathing, body movements, heart rhythm and oxygenation. Your body position during sleep is an important part of a sleep study. For this reason, and for increased safety, you will be observed on video camera.

There are no needles involved in this study, so it is generally not considered a painful test. However, some patients find sleeping with electrodes to be an uncomfortable experience. Many people are concerned about being able to fall asleep, but this is rarely a problem. Although you are not expected to go to sleep at a specific time, you will be encouraged to fall asleep as soon as possible to maximize the sleep time during which you can be monitored. If you are concerned about your ability to fall asleep, we suggest you deprive yourself of some sleep the night or two before your test by either going to bed later or waking up earlier than usual. Bringing your own pillow from home may also make you more comfortable. You are also permitted to bring items that are important to your bedtime routine such as a radio, fan, book or bedtime snack. Smoking is not permitted in the building. Smokers should attempt to refrain from smoking the night of the test, or come prepared to smoke outdoors. Please do not bring beepers or cell phones which may cause awakenings, disrupt your test and possibly effect the test results. (If you must have these devices with you, make certain they are turned off during testing.) Testing is finished and most patients are discharged at about 6:30AM.

INSURANCE:
An overnight polysomnogram is billed as an outpatient lab test. There are two bills generated; one from Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital for the test itself, and the other from RWJMS-Rutgers for the physician reading and interpretation of the study. The sleep center has evaluated patients with almost all types of medical insurance. If you have traditional or private medical insurance, we recommend you contact your company prior to the test regarding coverage. You must bring in with you the prescription, authorization number or referral form obtained through the primary care or referring specialty care physician. Your insurance company may need the following information to verify coverage:

The CPT (or procedure) code for polysomnogram is 95810 or 95811, depending on whether you have a diagnostic test, or, if the test included a therapeutic trial of CPAP/BiPAP. If you are scheduled for a multiple sleep latency test (MSLT), the CPT code is 95805. For each procedure, a modifier (.26) is added to the code for physician reading fee. They may also want to know the diagnosis or why your doctor has requested this test. If your insurance company requires a letter of predetermination or medical necessity, contact your physician. If you have any other questions regarding insurance, you may call the sleep center and we will try to assist you.

Note: We will make every effort to be sure required authorizations/predeterminations are obtained well in advance of your scheduled sleep study. However, if we have not received required authorization/predetermination by 4pm the day before your sleep study we will call you to reschedule.

RESULTS:
The study will be scored and interpreted by one of our sleep professionals. The referring physician will receive a written report within 7 business days of the date of the study.
The Sleep Center is located on the second floor of the Medicor Building. It is on the corner of Route 206 N and Doctor’s Way. When arriving please go to the second floor and follow the sign to the sleep center lobby.
